

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
------------------	----

Part I

The Problem Is Wealth, Not Poverty

1	Introducing the Problem of Wealth	3
2	The Centrality of Economics in Christian Theology	27

Part II

Economism and the Ethic of Scarcity

3	When, Why, and How? The Boundary between Economics and Theology	49
4	The Current Dominant Forms of Wealth Creation and the Ethic of Scarcity	64

Part III

Digging for Roots to Nourish an Ethic of Enough

5	Social Trinity, Love, and the Ethic of Enough	97
6	Extensive Roots: Ecocentric and Theocentric Visions of Economy from a Wider Variety of the World's Great Faith Traditions	129

Part IV
Increasing the Theological and Moral Imagination
of the US Middle Class

7	Real People Embodying Different Values	157
8	Parables for Sharing	194
	Concluding Observations and a Call to Action	213

Part V
Additional Resources

Appendix 1	Prompts for Further Thought, Reflection, and Discussion	219
Appendix 2	Documents of Catholic Social Teaching	225
Appendix 3	Selected Statements on Just Economy and Wealth Inequalities by Protestant Denominations and Ecumenical Organizations	227
Appendix 4	Selected Statements on Just Economy, Worker Rights, and Wealth Inequalities Made by a Wider Variety of Religious Traditions and Interfaith Organizations	231
	Glossary of Alternative Theological and Other Terms for Envisioning an Economy That Serves the Commons	233
	Index	237