

Contents

Acknowledgments	x
Foreword	xiii
Introduction	xvii
1. Enfolded Wholeness—Creation and Trinity	1
David Bohm’s Vision of Wholeness and Implicate Order	1
Wholeness in the Realm of Science	3
David Bohm’s Interpretation of the Double Slit Experiment	7
A Changing Worldview	10
David Bohm’s Implicate Order	12
The Enfolded and Unfolding Source of All Love— The Implicate Order of the Source of Love	16
Fragmentation as Our Original Sin	24
Lee Smolin’s Loop Quantum Gravity and Perichoresis	30
2. From Being to Love	37
The Word Person in Trinitarian Theology	39
Jean-Luc Marion’s God without Being	43
God as Unoriginate Source of Love Revealed in Word and Enacted in Spirit	50
3. The Trinity and Scripture	57
God of the Hebrew Scriptures	57
The Sacred Name of God—YHWH and Iēsous	63
God as Word, Wisdom, Spirit	66

Word, Wisdom, and Spirit in the Christian Scriptures	71
Father and Son	74
The Proclaimer Is Proclaimed	76
4. Patristic Images of the Trinity	79
The Influence of Greek Philosophy on the Doctrine of the Trinity	81
Images of the Trinity in Patristic Theology	82
Justin Martyr (c. 100–165 CE)	83
Irenaeus of Lyons (115–202 CE)	85
Tertullian (155–240 CE)	87
Athanasius (297–371 CE)	90
The Cappadocians: Basil of Caesarea (330–79), Gregory Nazianzus (329–89), and Gregory of Nyssa (332–95)	96
Maximus the Confessor (580–662 CE)	99
5. The Trinitarian Theology of Karl Rahner	111
Humans as Created for God	111
God as Mystery of Love	113
The Economic Trinity and the Immanent Trinity	116
The Self-Express-Ability of God	119
Creation and Incarnation	122
God and Humanity Do Not Compete	125
The Holy Spirit as the Love of God Poured into Our Hearts	130
The Spirit as Offer and Acceptance of Love	132
6. From a Social Analogy to the Analogy of Love	135
The Social Analogy of the Trinity in Jürgen Moltmann and Leonardo Boff	137
An Alternative Model to Moltmann and Boff	143
The Trinitarian Theology of Catherine Mowry LaCugna	147
Encountering Mystery: Love as Source, Word, and Spirit	150
Unfolding Catholicity	156

7. Conclusion: Catholicity = Wholeness of Love	159
The Crucifixion in a Fragmented World	160
Unfolding Love	163
The Call of Pope Francis	166
From Lord to Love	172
Bibliography	177
Index	183